Petitioner, NOEL VALDIVIA, SR., prisoner number C-29917, by and through the Office of the Federal Defender, requests this Court issue a writ of habeas corpus ad testificandum compelling Respondents to produce Mr. Valdivia at the Sacramento County Jail at least one day before the June 25, 2010 hearing in this matter so that Mr. Valdivia is be available for interview by pretrial services and to produce him in court for the hearing on the pending motion for immediate release so that he is available to testify at the hearing.

ARGUMENT

This Court has determined that Petitioner was unconstitutionally denied parole in 2004. This Court granted Petitioner habeas relief after concluding there was no evidence to support the June 1, 2004, California Board of Prison Terms's^{1/} decision to find Petitioner unsuitable for parole. Docket entry no. 46. This Court specifically found "the evidence before the [Board] consistently demonstrated that Petitioner has posed a low risk of violence to the community in which he would be paroled. Some evidence does not support the [Board's] contrary findings." Id. page 7.

Petitioner has been incarcerated in state prison for nearly 30 years. This court granted petitioner habeas relief over two years ago. Petitioner has suffered a long delay in his release prompted by the Respondents' appeal and stay of the remedial order. Now that the Ninth Circuit has lifted the stay of this court's remedial order and now that the Board has determined Petitioner's term, Petitioner should not have to remain in prison serving an excessive amount of time for his commitment offense. The Board determined that a 284 month term of imprisonment was enough time to punish him. Petitioner fully completed serving this term many years ago and now has almost 30 years in custody. Nonetheless, Respondents continue to keep Petitioner imprisoned while awaiting briefing and the ultimate decision on their appeal.

Petitioner has filed a motion seeking an order for Petitioner's immediate release, Docket entry no. 60, which this Court has now set for hearing on June 25, 2010, at 10:00 a.m. Docket entry no. 61. Petitioner believes that this Court's release decision will benefit from information it may gain from Petitioner and from the participation and assistance of pretrial services. As mentioned in the motion for release, Petitioner's family is supportive of Petitioner's parole and are active in his parole plans. Petitioner plans to live with his parents, Amalia and Jose Valdivia, in Stockton, California. His parents own their own home which is where Petitioner plans to live once released. Either parent or another family members may

1 be available to act as third party custodial, if the Court believes one is needed. Making
 2 Petitioner available to pretrial services will also assist the Court in its decision making. For 3 this reason, Petitioner asks that he be brought to the Sacramento County Jail or other local 4 locale and be made available to pretrial services for an interview before the hearing on his 5 motion for his immediate release.

6 To determine what, if any, conditions the Court should impose on Petitioner's
 7 release,^{2/} the Court should issue the writ so Petitioner is available at the hearing and so that
 8 pretrial services may interview Petitioner, in addition to others, in advance of the June 25, 9 2010, hearing.

10 CONCLUSION

11 This court should exercise its inherent power to enforce its habeas grant, and its 12 power under Fed. R. App. P. 23(c), by ordering Petitioner's release pending Respondents'
 13 appeal. To best determine what, if any, conditions the Court should impose on Petitioner's
 14 release, the Court should issue the writ of habeas corpus ad testificandum so that Petitioner
 15 is available as a witness at the June 25, 2010, hearing and so that pretrial services may 16 interview Petitioner, in addition to others, in advance of that same hearing.

25 ² This Court has broad authority to order a prisoner's release pending appeal of a grant
 26 of habeas corpus and that authority is governed by the standards of Fed. R. App. P. 23(c). The 27 Court's authority starts with the presumption that the prisoner will be release on his own
 28 recognizance with or without surety. Id.; Hilton v. Braunskill, 481 U.S. 770, 774, 107 S.Ct.
